Pistol Shots Scatter the Members of a Colored Troupe.

PORT HURON, Sept. 23.—Persons who were in the vicinity of the Princess Theater, of, as it is more generally known, "Plan" Bank, were startled yesterday afternoon by the report of a number of pistol shots and a hurried exodus from the bank of a number of colored minstrels and the attendants of the place. An investigation revealed the cause of the trouble to be an altercation between the members of a minstrel troupe, who were called to appear at the bank this week in connection with a lecture on the cure of cholera by the Hubsis Cholera Cure company, purporting to hail from Detroit. It seems that some of the members of the troupe got into an altercation over a female member, who was called to the stage in the flourishing of razors and drawing of pistols. The only serious result of the affair is said to be the lodging of a bullet in the foot of one of the artists.

STEAMER ANN ARBOR LAUNCHED.

Built for the Toledo, Ann Arbor and Northern Michigan Road.

TOLEDO, Sept. 23.—One of the greatest events in the history of lake ship building took place here this afternoon when the steamer "Ann Arbor" No. 1 was successfully launched from Crag's shipyard. She is the first of two boats contracted for by the Toledo, Ann Arbor & Northern Michigan railroad, and the first vessel ever destined to carry loaded freight across Lake Michigan. Her dimensions are: Length over all, 251 feet; beam, 52 feet; depth, 15 feet. She will have three complete engines, each 20 and 40 inches diameter of cylinder by 30 inches stroke, four steel fire box boilers, and will be propelled by twin screws. Her capacity is twenty-four loaded cars. Displacement, 28,000 tons. Her minimum speed, when loaded is estimated at seventeen miles per hour. She is fitted with machinery for breaking ice and will attain a speed of five miles an hour while crushing ice. She will run between Frankfort, Mich., and Keweenaw, Wis., making two trips each day.

POLITICAL POINTERS.

Burt's Opponent at Saginaw William E. Crane.

Houghton, Sept. 23.—At the republican county convention held yesterday afternoon the following ticket was nominated: Representative to the legislature, first district, Frank B. Lyon; second district, George C. Bentley; judge of probate, William Ward; sheriff, William A. Dunn; treasurer, William F. Miller; clerk, Robert H. Shields; register of deeds, Arno Jaehning; circuit court commissioners, W. E. Gray, John B. Curtis; prosecuting attorney, A. T. Stroger.

SAGINAW, Sept. 23.—The republican county convention nominated Charles W. Wells for senator. Mr. Wells was out of the city, and on his return declined the nomination. Today the county committee placed William E. Crane on the ticket as the senatorial candidate. He was born in Iowa county in 1853, and has lived in Saginaw county since he was 2 years old.

Houghton, Sept. 23.—A routing republican meeting was held here this evening, with Frank Sheldon as chairman, and D. J. Diekema and D. P. Markey addressed the assembly upon the issues of the day. A torchlight procession with over 500 men in line preceded the meeting, and the opera house was crowded to overflowing.

Battle Creek, Sept. 23.—The republican county convention of the second representative district of Calhoun county met here this afternoon. Patrick Hart of this city was unanimously nominated as representative from this district. Mr. Hart is an active and popular young republican.

NORTHVILLE, Sept. 23.—The republican club of the place held a session of its members at their club room Monday evening. They were addressed by John M. Swift.

The republican county convention of the second representative district of Calhoun county has nominated Patrick Hart of Battle Creek as representative. The republican convention for the second legislative district of St. Clair county nominated Albert Tobach of Capon, as Memphis.

Accident on the Track.

PONTIAC, Sept. 23.—Yesterday was the opening day of the fair, and the grounds were the scene of a sad accident. Fred Verant and A. E. McLaughlin were crossing a trestle and a runner, respectively, the horses both going in opposite directions and coming in collision. The rider of the runner, McLaughlin, was thrown some twenty feet, but not seriously injured, while Mr. Verant was thrown out and one of his legs broken.

Green Goods Man Arrested.

RAY CITY, Sept. 23.—Information has been received from New York to the effect that a green goods man named E. F. Pine had been arrested there, at the instance of a newspaper reporter who agreed to buy some of his goods and led him into a trap. Pine is the man who has been working up business in the Saginaw Valley, flooding the mails with his circulars.

Body Found.

SAGINAW, Sept. 23.—The body of an unknown man was found yesterday on what is known as Crotchfield island, in Saginaw bay, about four miles from Sebewaing. The body is that of an old man, having the appearance of having been a sailor.

story of swamp land between Bay City and Saginaw on the east side of the river, which is to be reclaimed by R. W. Mundy, of this city, is now being surveyed preparatory to putting a dredge to work. This land has been found to be especially adapted to the growing of celery.

Crushed to Death.

LAFAYETTE, Sept. 23.—John S. Flumerfelt, a wealthy old pioneer of this county, aged 70 years, was instantly killed in a peculiar manner yesterday. A heavy wind and rainstorm came up while he was in the field, and he sought shelter behind a stump fence. He chose one of the larger stumps and crouched down among the roots. The wind tipped the stump to an upright position and he was instantly crushed to death.

Body Recovered.

GREEN HAVEN, Sept. 23.—A body was washed ashore here Sunday night. From appearances it has been in the water a couple of weeks and is badly decomposed. It is that of a young man and has the initials, G. McK., on the arm. It is supposed to be the remains of George McKennie, lost from the City of Toledo off Manistee. An inquest was held and the body buried on the beach where it came ashore.

In a Lumber Town.

CHEBOYGAN, Sept. 23.—The case of Norman W. Lyons, for embezzlement while county treasurer, is now on in the circuit court. The criminal charge only will be tried this term. A dive in the second ward was pulled by the police last night, and among those pulled were three collectors of a bad debt collecting agency trying to start up here. They were put in the cooler.

Franks of the Lightning.

BLISSFIELD, Sept. 23.—During the storm Sunday afternoon the house of John Upell, four miles north of Blissfield, was struck by lightning, it coming down the chimney through the stove. Miss Emma Burnor, who was sitting between the stove and window, received a shock which knocked her senseless, but at this writing is better, with a good show of recovery.

Fire at Frankfort.

FRANKFORT, Sept. 23.—A large frame building was discovered on fire Sunday evening. The building was usually used as a boarding house, but was vacant at the time and undergoing repairs. The fire companies, although recently organized, are among the best of northern Michigan, and soon had the fire extinguished.

Triplets at Ypsilanti.

YPSILANTI, Sept. 23.—A few days since a Mrs. Scott, a resident of the first ward, increased the city's population by giving birth to triplets, two girls and a boy, weighing respectively eight, seven and five pounds. The attending physician says that the babies are well developed and healthy, and will be thrives, live.

Athens of the West.

ATHENS, Sept. 23.—An organization known as the Citizens' Lecture club has been started here. They propose to have a series of interesting lectures during the winter. The following are the officers: President, J. A. Snyder; vice president, W. J. Blood; secretary, P. F. Foote; treasurer, A. E. Underwood.

Point Conceded the Miners.

LEANSBURG, Sept. 23.—The Lake Angeline mine management, employing 500 men, will begin eight hour shifts Oct. 1 voluntary. The miners struck two years ago for this concession and were defeated. The movement will revolutionize relations between capital and labor in the Lake Superior mining district.

Too Much Sunday Work.

LANSING, Sept. 23.—In the circuit court Bert M. Osgood, Fidelis Kinzie and M. D. Perigo each pleaded guilty to violating the liquor laws by selling liquor on Sunday and legal holidays. Mayor Bement has been making it warm for violators of the Sunday closing law, and these are only sample cases.

Secured an Eight Hour Day.

INTERMEDIUM, Sept. 23.—The miners at the Lake Angeline mine, the most profitable in the city, won their demands for an eight-hour day for which they vainly struck two years ago. The change goes into effect Monday next. It is reported as a highly important concession by both parties to the controversy.

Shiawassee County Fair.

OSHTON, Sept. 23.—The opening day of the Shiawassee county fair was the best in its history. All day exhibits of every kind have poured into the grounds. The show of live stock is large in every class, including many fine animals. The halls are well filled. Everything points to a successful fair.

Deadly Gasoline.

ANN ARBOR, Sept. 23.—Mrs. Andrew Fuller, living in the Hamilton block, was severely burned on her arms, body and limbs last evening by a gasoline stove. The gasoline ran over the cup and caught fire. Her husband smothered the flames with a blanket. The fire department was called out.

Western Social Conference.

HOLLAND, Sept. 23.—The regular fall meeting of the western social conference was held yesterday. There was a large attendance and it was a decided success. The papers read were excellent. A bountiful dinner was served at the Third Reformed church, and a very pleasant time enjoyed.

Howard City Fair.

HOWARD CITY, Sept. 23.—The Howard City fair opened yesterday with a large number of entries. All the races are filled. The fruit exhibit is fine, especially in the apple line.

Evicted Tenants Want to Be Represented.

VIEWED BY THE IRISH PRESS

They Have an Idea the Chief Secretary Has Made Out a Case.

DUBLIN, Sept. 23. The secretary of the Evicted Tenants' association declares that, although it is apparent to the tenants that Chief Secretary for Ireland Morley has resolved to have a commission of inquiry regarding their condition only in order to gain time, yet, as the commission has been revolved upon and is to be forced upon the evicted tenants whether they like it or not, they demand to be represented on the commission.

The Independent (Parnellite) hails with pleasure the proposed appointment of a commission to examine into the question of evictions, especially the apparent extension of the scope of the inquiry to the evictions that occurred in the days of the Land League, as well as the cases of the later sufferers by the adventures of Messrs. Dillon and O'Brien. The paper adds:

We cannot help saying that Mr. Morley has made out a case for an autumn session of parliament for a commission of inquiry, which has become in Ireland a euphemism for shaming the question.

The Freeman's Journal says: Mr. Morley's letter to Justin McCarthy shows that the government is honestly resolved to protect evicted tenants from injustice. The evidence and the report of the commission will dissipate the combined calumny of the economists and Redmonites that the tenants' combination is designed for purely political purposes. The report of the commission will give a tremendous impetus to legislation in behalf of the evicted tenants.

NOW A LOST CHORD.

Last Rites of Bandmaster Gilmore in New York.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—The obsequies of Bandmaster Patrick Sarsfield Gilmore were held this morning and were of the most impressive character. As early as 8 o'clock the house of the late musician on West Eighty-sixth street was crowded with sorrowing friends. The casket, which was covered with black cloth, was literally smothered with flowers. The casket was borne to the funeral cortege to move, the streets in the vicinity were densely packed with people. No ceremony was held at the home. The remains were followed by the widow, the daughter, Miss Minnie Gilmore and a number of relatives and friends of the deceased.

The pall-bearers were composed of non-commissioned officers of the Twenty-second regiment in uniform, the pall-bearers, Press club and other organizations, including the non-commissioned officers of the Twenty-second regiment in uniform and a long line of carriages. The New York Press club held a meeting to take action on the death of Gilmore. Col. John Cockrill presided, and there were over 100 members present. Suitable resolutions were adopted.

The arrangements for the funeral were completed this morning. At 8 o'clock tomorrow morning the entire Twenty-second regiment will march to Mr. Gilmore's late home at No. 164 West Eighty-sixth street. They will form in procession and escort the body to St. Francis Xavier's church, in West Sixteenth street. At the church the officers and the company will represent the regiment. Afterward their representatives will escort the body to Calvary cemetery, when they will pay a final tribute to the dead musician. At the funeral services will be representatives of the musical union, musical post, the Catholic club, St. Patrick's society, and the Parliamentary Irish nationalists.

BRING ON YOUR "DESIRELETS."

QUICK REINSTATEMENT.

IN MY RECOLLECTION there is but one case of suspension of a baseball player which was of shorter duration than that which was lately imposed upon Left Fielder O'Rourke of the New York team. The exception was the suspension and reinstatement of Fred Lewis by President Von der Ahe six or seven years ago. Both events occurred within an hour.

Lewis appeared at the grounds of the St. Louis club that day pretty drunk. Von der Ahe had suffered a good deal from Fred's dissipation, yet bore with the big fellow because the latter had a very widespread reputation as an ugly man to handle.

On this day the St. Louis club lost the game on account of Lewis' disability. As soon as the game was finished Chris called Captain Comiskey and told him in informal Lewis that he was suspended. Then Chris went out to the gate in right field to watch.

A few minutes later Von der Ahe was pained struck by the sight of Lewis running out with a baseball bat in his hand in the direction of the club's office. The sight was all Chris needed to induce immediate action. He began to beat a retreat. A body put Lewis on the trail, and a lively chase took place. Chris, however, had a safe start, and the St. Louis chief reached his office in safety and behind and barricaded the doors and windows.

Lewis stormed the retreat for a few minutes and then went away for reinforcement, which he found behind the bar of a neighboring saloon. Presently Chris saw Comiskey passing on the opposite side of the street. A heavy thought struck him. Cautiously opening the shutter he called to his captain, "Comiskey, go find Lewis and tell him he is reinstated."

The recent case of O'Rourke's suspension was based on fear also—not a fear of violence, but a fear of public condemnation. A heavy thought struck him. Cautiously opening the shutter he called to his captain, "Comiskey, go find Lewis and tell him he is reinstated."

O'Rourke has been a professional player for nearly twenty years, and in all that time has never even merited a fine. His habits are exemplary, his character unassailable and his instincts those of a gentleman. The suspension if adhered to would have been almost a crime.

The Clevelanders have gone home from their eastern trip still in the lead, as I predicted they would. Of course they have not won the second championship, but their chance is better than that of any other club. The Bostonians are showing up as the "Spiders," most dangerous foe, and their recent work suggests another of those famous finishes which many wintered in the League last autumn. If the present champions can keep their style of playing to the end they will bid heavily against the Clevelanders' chance.

The latter show by their constant play a degree of faith in themselves as a team which is almost an invincible acquirement. They are never beaten. Every time on the team has an unshaken belief that they cannot be beaten out in this race. That is half their battle won. They get this confidence from Clarkson and their captain, Tebeau.

If they win, as is now likely, I doubt very much whether they can be beaten. The season will be late, and both cities are too far to favor a longer series.

A winning club always has an element of luck of some kind following it. This was illustrated in the Cleveland's game against the New Yorks on Sept. 18. Crane had a letter to the "Spiders" and he went in to pitch for New York that day, while Clarkson "twirled" for his side. Three unfortunate errors by the Clevelanders led in eight unearned runs, and with Crane at his best this would have been certain defeat for them. But it was Crane's first game, and he was not in his element with a Chicago girl. The result was disastrous. His work partook of a panic. His nervousness was at times painful to the eye. He could neither pitch the ball, pick it up nor throw it, and in the middle of the game, with nine unearned runs against him, he was sent back to his bedroom to change his shirt.

When Terry pitched against his old club, the Brooklyn, recently he held them down to five hits and batted out a brace of doubles himself. It was the bitterest dose of Captain Ward has been asked to swallow this year, and when some one in the crowd yelled, "Why did you release him, Ward?" John Montgomery grinned some words deep down in his throat which were not found in the latest revised dictionary.

The recent statement that the New York club was in arrears for salaries and that their losses for the season would be fully $100,000 if not done, is fast for serious consideration. There will be a great shake-up before next season opens in both the club and the issue of the metropolitan. How interested in New York affects the interest everywhere, and it is for the welfare of the game that New York and Chicago's representatives cannot and must not withdraw from the game.

The club which are so close willing to concede something to strengthen the foundation of the big League.

A CHICAGO HERCULES.

Leonide Keating Holds Peculiar Views Concerning Muscular Development.
Leonide Keating, of Chicago, is a physical marvel. At the age of five he was apprenticed to a circus man who decided to make a bareback rider of the boy. At the age of twelve Keating, while endeavoring to turn a double somersault from the horse's back, fell heavily to the bank of the river striking with terrific force upon his neck. For two years he was laid up in bed with curvature of the spine, and when he finally became convalescent the doctors told him that he would be a cripple for life, and yet Keating, although below medium height, now measures 41½ inches around the chest, 35½ inches around the waist and can lift considerably more than 1,000 pounds of dead weight.

This change in his physical condition Mr. Keating attributes to the art of breathing correctly. He believes that abdominal breathing is the only natural and healthful method of inflating the lungs, and that

The use of the diaphragm is absolutely essential to insure muscular development and sound health.

Keating says that any man provided he has no chronic disease can attain as great physical development as he possesses, provided he faithfully follows out his plan of breathing and the light calisthenic exercises which he has adopted. He says it all depends, as far as the length of time necessary is concerned, upon the number of bad habits to be overcome.

A Valuable Trophy.
Mr. Ralph N. Ellis' fine yacht Iroquois was the winner of the recent race for schooner for the Larchmont cup for 1892, valued at $500. The trophy is a beautiful one, and the design is extremely chaste and ornate.
